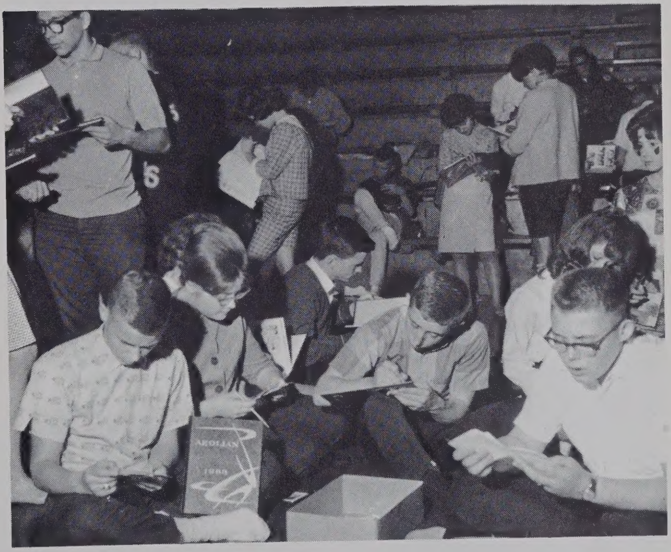
Pardon Our Pride in the Spring

for it brought lots of fun and activities--Council Capers, yearbooks, conference track stars, jr.-sr. banquet, picnics, and graduation.

Spring busted out with semester tests, grade cards, new construction for addition, and an end to a very PROUD 1962-63 school year.

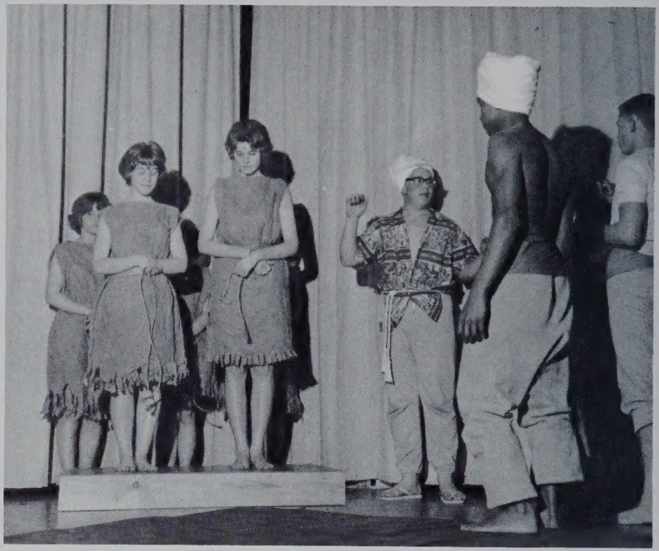
Top prize winner in the 1963 Council Capers was the 7th grade's presentation "The Wreck of the Hesperus."



Keeping the pens moving was most important at the Aeolian Hop.

High jumper Baldy VanAllen clears the pole and another victory for Garrett.

Claiming second prize in the '63 Capers were Hud Freeze and Larry Cattell with their Presidential takeoff.



A slave auction, a tumbling act, and a mystic dance were all a part of the freshman skit.

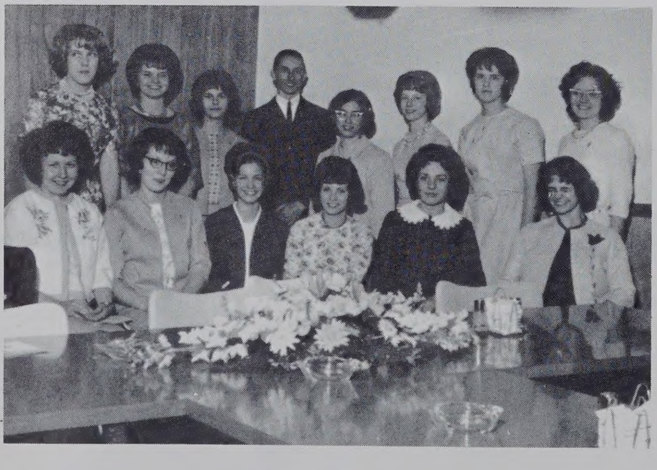
Council Capers, Banquets, and Activities almost made us forget the classroom as the usual spring rush of banquets, parties, and picnics arrived.

Council Caper practices were announced daily by organizations, and then all too soon the curtain went up on the 1963 production.

Publications staff members attended a banquet at Platners and saw the new members of Quill and Scroll initiated.

Cold weather whetted appetites for the Junior-Senior Picnic, and record amounts of food, twisting, and ball playing were enjoyed.



Officially made 1963 members of Quill & Scroll were (seated) June Harding, Keitha Griffin, Marcia Tharpe, Kathy Slater, Ann Wysong, Judi Johoski. (standing) Jeri Rupp, Rosie McGrath, Betty Muzzilo, Sam Miller, Ruby Cook, Arlene Carper, Jenny Kelham, and Sharon Jones.

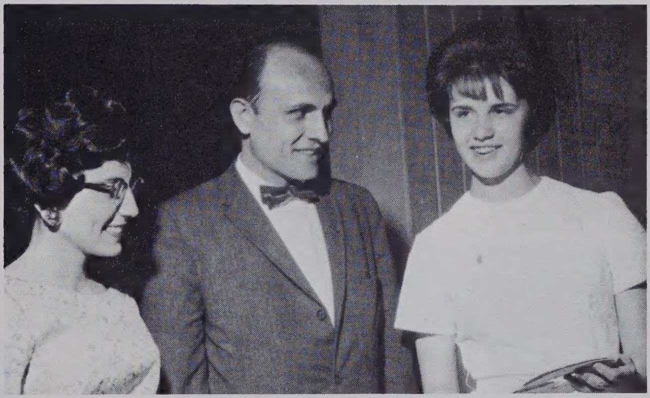
Jr.-Sr. Picnickers enjoy ice cold pop along with all the fun at Pokagon.

Mr. William Linder, Roberta Spicer, Steve Fike, and Mr. Jack Bateman go over some details before leaving for the National Science Fair at Alburquerque, New Mexico.

Mr. William Schafer makes minor adjustments in the Industrial Art's model home.

Picnics Are Fun

Roberta Spicer traveled to the National Science Fair and was named one of the top 16 winners . . . The Band stepped out in new uniforms at the Spring Concert . . . Tri Kappa honored a record number of students at the Recognition Banquet . . . The Y-Clubs elected capable leaders for the coming year . . . and we were proud to be GHS students.



Senior Jenny Kelham shows Honor Banquet speaker Dr. L. A. Willig and a Tri Kappa member the awards received.

Band members show off their new uniforms in the Memorial Day parade.

Oriental-dressed servers Adele Smith and Steve Hazeltine place salad dishes on the gaily decorated tables.

Fun was the theme of the juniors and seniors as they attended the annual Banquet.

Oriental decorations which included a pagoda formed a setting for a night to remember.

Following the meal and dancing, entertainment was provided by a group from Fort Wayne.

Changing quickly from formal wear to more casual dress, the fun seekers then went to the square dance, and movie. Breakfast followed early Saturday morning. The brave ones then took off for the lakes and more fun.

All too soon the week end was over, and the memories were recorded.

Shangri-la Brings

Juniors and seniors dance to the music provided by Dick Seeger's Band.

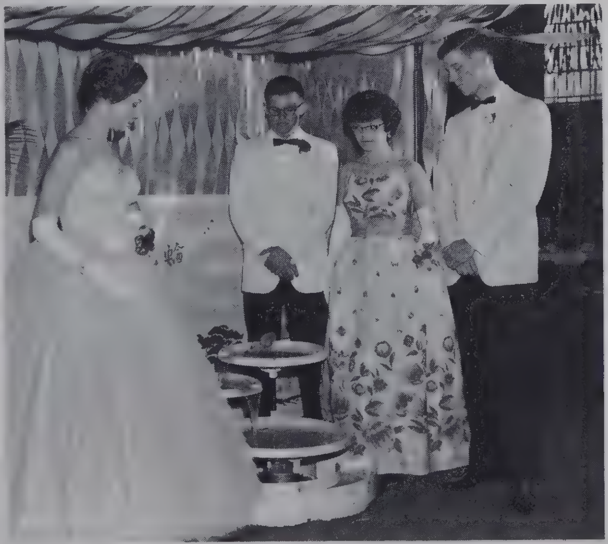
Co-Chairmen of the Jr.-Sr. Banquet, "Shangri-la" are juniors Keith Bunn and Linda Fleet.

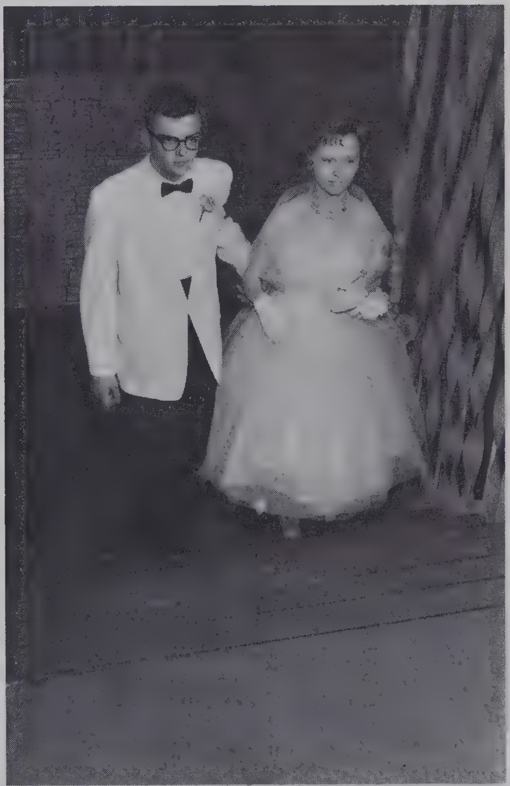
Sponsor Paul Bateman adjusts the name cards before the grand entrance.

Romance is aglow at the entrance fountain between seniors Marcia Tharpe and Darryl Whittington.

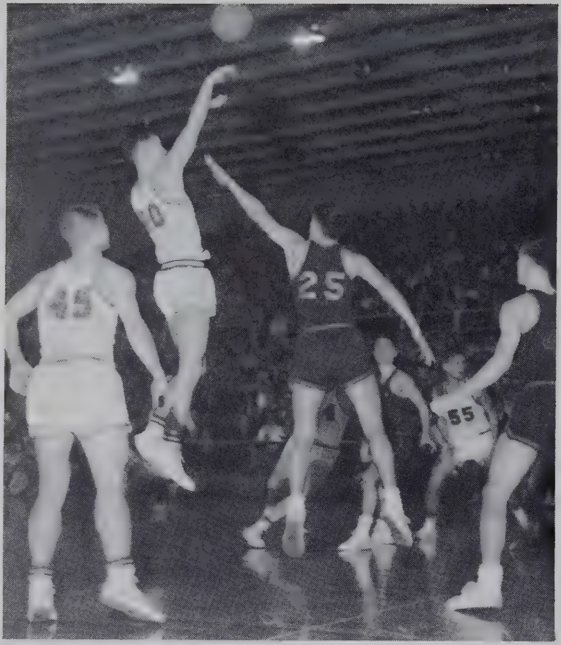
Chopsticks, Fortune Cookies, and Fun

Class presidents junior Al Rapp and senior Tom Funk escort their dates, Judy Knott and Betty Thompson through the oriental garden.





Entering the banquet are Bob Souers and his date Linda Freeman.



Tention runs high at the Sectional Tourney as senior Tom Funk tries for another two points.

Athletes Provide Room for

Basketball ended for the Railroaders in the final game of the sectional at the Angola Gymnasium. Following a thrilling win over rival Auburn, the team couldn't keep up with Angola in the night contest.

The golf team had an up-and-down season but managed to pull a respectable fourth place out of the NEIAC match held at the Bluffton course.

Trophies were few but thrills were many as the Railroader athletic teams entertained thousands of fans during the 1962-63 season.

School Pride

The track was crowded with eager cindermen as the season's practice sessions were started in cold rainy weather. In a not-too-spectacular season the squad usually ended the meets with a score below that of the opponents.

Cindermen also included M. Jensen, R. Noel, T. Foar, T. Keefer, D. Noel, and S. Mulligan. ROW 2--E. Bigelow, T. Vanderbosch, E. Kelham, A. Hopkins, L. Warstler, G. Porter, D. Opdycke, and D. Van Allen. ROW 3--F. Ballentine, B. Handshoe, M. Moody, D. Miller, J. White, D. Steward, M. Smurr, R. Shafer, and B. Lung.

Others on the track of the Railroaders were J. Clabaugh, D. Ewert, R. Davis, J. Corry, T. Engel, B. Custer, and B. Byanski. ROW 2--Joe Binz, T. Gaar, D. Platner, G. Rugman, G. Ludban, R. Matthews, T. Dembickie, T. Parvu, and V. Hunter.

Larry Warstler became the 1963 Decathlon champion as the spring practices came to a close.

Jim White came in second in the ten-event contest.

Salutatorian Steve Fike presents his speech as valedictorian Joe Rowe looks on during the Class Night program.

Pardon Our Pride . . .

Good citizens of the Class of '63 pin the class's star on the school banner. Ruby Cook and Bob Snook were selected for the honor.

As we hurried through that final week of high school, we tried to be dignified as we knew graduating seniors should be, and we struggled to keep from thinking about the end of our high school career.

Many activities filled the week, and with the little time remaining we attended parties.

Class Night saw many honors bestowed and our class good citizens selected by the faculty were announced. As the strains of the class song and the school song died away, it was evident that the week was ending.

The senior dinner with its awards and the class prophecy was over too soon and we were making the long march.

The music, the speaker, and that long walk to get the diploma were soon over and we stood to be officially named graduates of GHS as the Class of 1963.

The long line of seniors assembled on the walk outside the Big Gym preceding commencement exercises presents a spectacle of blue and white gowns and mixed emotions.

Pardon Our Pride

Leaving late after a hard day of classes, sports, and activities is very familiar as in the case of senior Dale Bunn.

AT GHS

and proud is the word that describes our school feeling through halls, activities, clubs, and sports. We all share this feeling from excited 7th graders to experienced seniors. We scan the halls each day with a sparkle on our face. PROUD that G.H.S. holds its head high in scholastic achievements; that the Railroaders achieve successful gains in sportsmanship; that our teachers and instructors labor to take PRIDE in us; that we attain good standards in our activities and clubs; but most of all proud that G.H.S. has students who make this PRIDE the glory of our school.

Boarding the school bus Randy Bergdall and Dan LaTurner head for home.

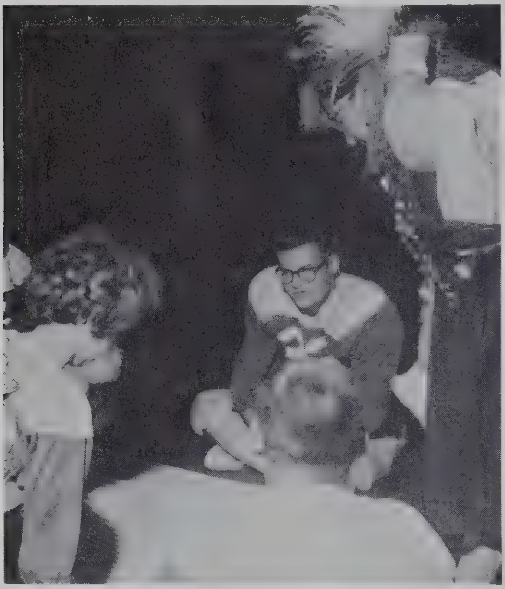
Mr. Simpson referees the faculty basketball game along with Mrs. Love.

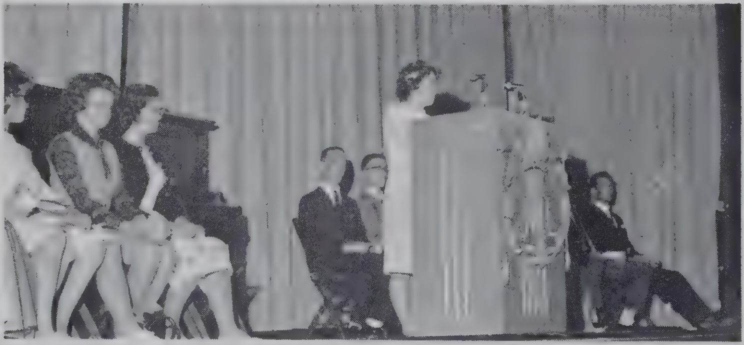
Football games, the fair, the start of the magazine drive, the wet pep rally and snake dance for the Garrett-Auburn game, and record hops kept us busy before Teachers Institute vacation.

After vacation we found that the magazine goal had been met, and the teachers started practicing for the "basketball" game they played (?) All teachers reported for school the day after the game, and students reported a laugh-packed evening.

Pride for the football team's tie with Auburn, for exceeding the magazine goal, and for GHS participants at the fair was high.



Coach Menges plans a new attack with her team.



Ruby Cook speaks at student assembly of summer workshops and institutes.

Cheerleader Sweeney cheers her team of teachers on to victory.

"Ice cream bars, anyone?" shout Art Shoener and Terry Howiler as they work in the Junior concession stand.

"What can the mystery be?" asks Carol Gaff and Dwayne Hathaway at the dance sponsored by the Newspaper staff.

Enthusiasm ran high at the snake dance, pep rally, and bonfire preceding the Auburn football game.

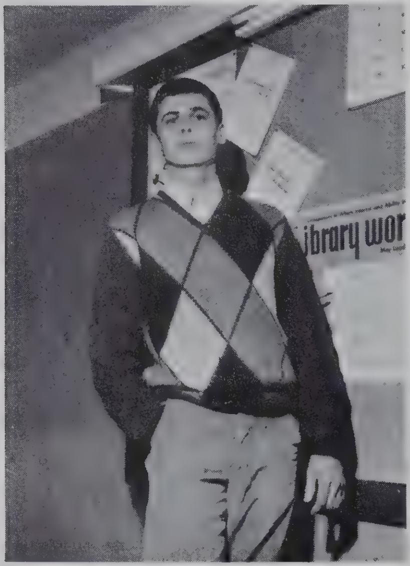
Fun Starts Early.

Cindy Strobel, Magazine Campaign Manager, and Mr. Porter, representative of Educational Reader's Service Inc., kick off this year's Magazine Drive.

Jerri Rupp, Miss Garrett, rides in the final parade of the DeKalb County Fair at Auburn.

Larry and Roddy Dillion wear matching ski sweat-shirts, a favorite of the younger set at GHS.

Admiring the latest fashion is Dave Quinn as he views Janos Ratrie's and Mary Wiant's knee socks and kilts.



Senior Bob Culler proudly displays one of the varied sweaters worn by the boys around the school.

Wigs, Knee Socks, Kilts,

Fashions played an important part of the year 1962-63. The school year saw many new fads and fancies which were accepted by a lot of the students.

Seen were bulky sweaters for girls and boys, knee socks and kilt skirts, matching shirts and outfits, and last, but not least, the new wigs!

Even though the fashions went wild, most of the students dressed well for school. It could be said that our school was really well-groomed.

A fashionable wig hat can change your complete appearance as shown by Jo Ellen Moses.

Jack Flemming reaches for his milk as Mr. Whittington, milkman, replenishes the supply.

Repair jobs around the school are worked on by school janitors, Clarence Starner, and Ervin Reed.

A daily scene of student life is the lunchroom. Chating the daily news and gossip, all the students find their thirty minute noon hour filled with fun.

Hilite As Fashions Go Wild.

Around the school are often seen the school janitors and cafeteria workers. They put in a lot of time working for the betterment of the school system.

Enjoying their lunch are Gary Kleeman and Tim Moody.

Working from morning to afternoon are the school cafeteria workers.

Juniors Janice Shafer, Marcia Tharpe, Bob Culler, Janos Ratrie, Alan DePew, and Dennis Blaker delight in an evening of enchantment.

Mary Lepley and escort Bob Smith enjoy an exciting tour of Switzerland by their guide Mitch Simpson.

Enchantment

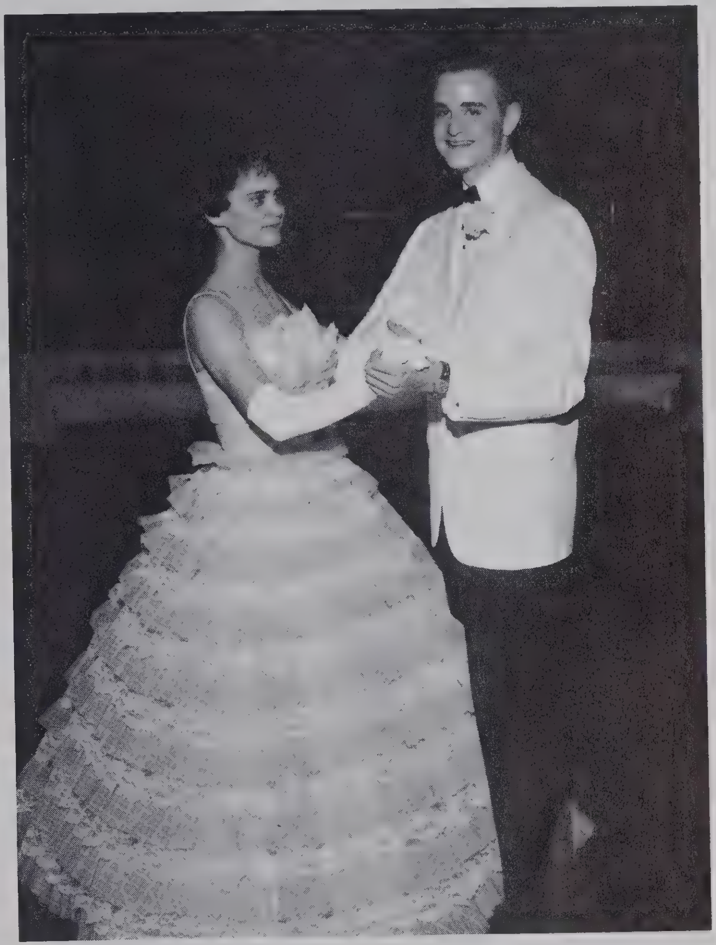
"Swiss Holiday" set the mood in the auditorium on May 4 as the Junior Class entertained the seniors with the banquet. Snow topped mountains, a cozy ski lodge, an enchanting Swiss castle, and mountain laurels, adorned the room.

Exciting events of the evening were the introductions by Roger Stroman, master of ceremonies, faculty speech by Mr. Hubert Stackhouse, and entertainment by the Varju brothers, who were harmonica comedians.

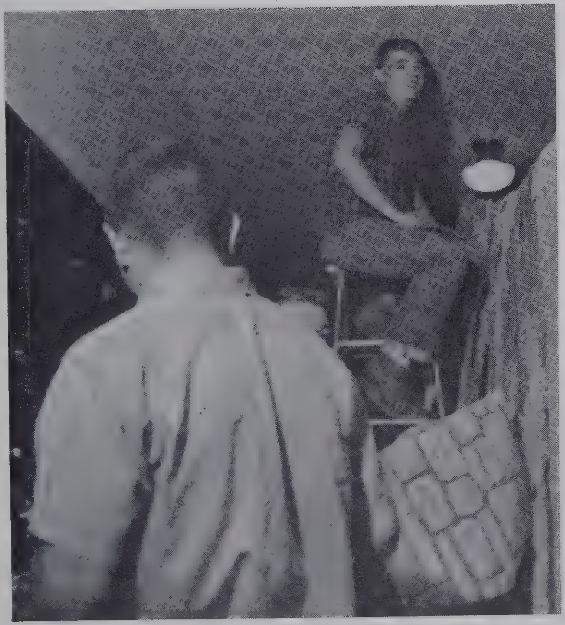
Gaily dressed in mountain climbing outfits, the servers worked diligently to bring the guests their food. Swiss steak, potatoes, and side dishes were the attractions on the menu.

Anticipating a large crowd, servers Terry Howiler and Bill Corry carry the food to the tables.

Dreams come to life as Judi Johoski, Co-Chairman and Roger Stroman, Master of Ceremonies lead off a dance.



Follows Hard Work



Preparations for the banquet continue as Bob Snook and Darryl Whittington work on the entrance.

Banquet sponsors, LeNore Lewis and Paul Bateman, survey the handiwork of the Juniors.

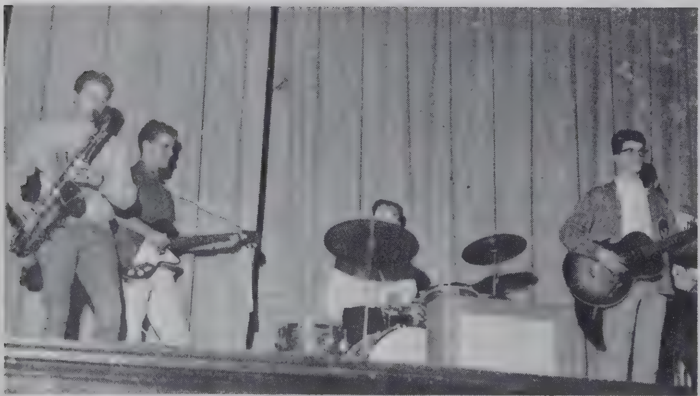
Directing the senior class play, Mr. Richard Smith watches the make-up application.

Talking over the decorations for the Hi-Y, Y-Teen semi-formal are Linda Freeman and Carol Bowers.

A regular M.C. at the record hops, Dale Bunn, starts off the music.

Student talent entertained at the first assembly program of this type for GHS. Laughter and applause filled the auditorium for the program--considered by many students and teachers to be the best assembly of the year.

New Report Cards

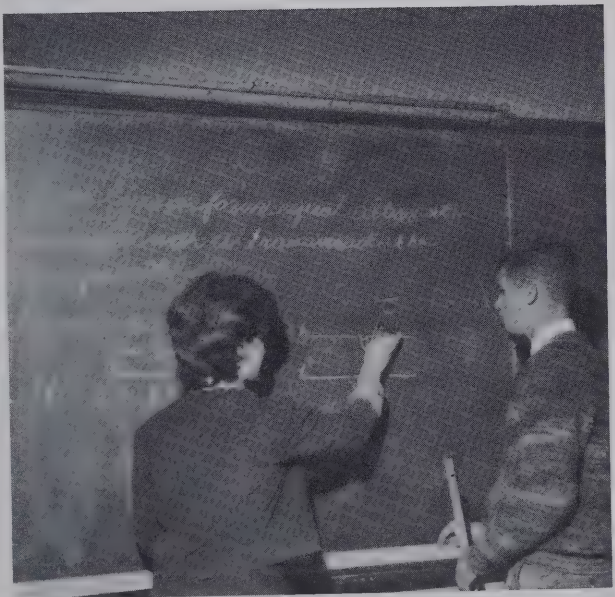


At the student assembly, the senior combo, the DeRails, played the final numbers.

Hud Freeze and Larry Cattell take the parts of President Kennedy and his brother at the student assembly.

Spanish costumes adorn Mick Wade and Marcia Tharpe presenting their project to the Spanish class.

Entered the Scene



Geometry students, Susan Jay and John Moats work together on an angle problem.

Studies maintain the top position in student activities. Projects of all kinds are done in many classes. Action from the books create future education.

Results are seen at the end of each of the six week periods. This year a new single report card was used. It permits each student to see his present and past grades all in one.

The new report cards seem to puzzle sophomore Phil Brechbill.

Tense moments were the rule, not the exception, at basketball games. Tom Funk steals an anxious glance at the clock in the close Columbia City game.

Water Nearly Drowns Picnickers

Taking off from school on May 22, the juniors and seniors headed for Pokagon State Park for the Picnic. This event was given by the seniors for the juniors in appreciation of the banquet.

Anything from water battles to submarine sandwiches provided the group with lots of fun. Faculty members took part in the fun.

Picnicker Gary Warfield checks the lake water as Perry Chorpenning hesitantly watches.

Senior Susie Hipskind joins the procession for the banquet of food at the Jr.-Sr. Picnic.

Dramatic Play Challenges Seniors

Shocked by the fall of "Billy," cast members Jeanne Menges, Sherry Bertsch, Janos Ratrie, Sharon James, Pam Wasson, and Dave Gradeless look for help.

Parents of the town listen to "Elizabeth," Sandy Sithen, as she pleads not to leave.

"Mr. Kovelesky," Bob Culler, and "Billy McGinnis," Phil Sweeney, hold a conversation in one of the flashbacks.

"Remarkable Incident at Carson Corners" was a new experiment for the senior class play. The three act drama was given Nov. 3-4 by the 26 cast members. The play centered around a courtroom trial in a small town.

"Billy McGinnis" fell from a school fire escape and was killed. The trial showed how everyone in the town was indirectly responsible for his death.

"Miss Frank," Keitha Griffin, is questioned by "Mr. Woodbridge," Tucker DePew, and "Mr. Wright," Butch Pickard.

Many high school students noted the destruction of their grade school alma mater, the Will Franks Building.

Ruby Cook and Lynn Kizer start the action rolling on the Aeolian subscription sales by collecting all the one-dollar deposits.

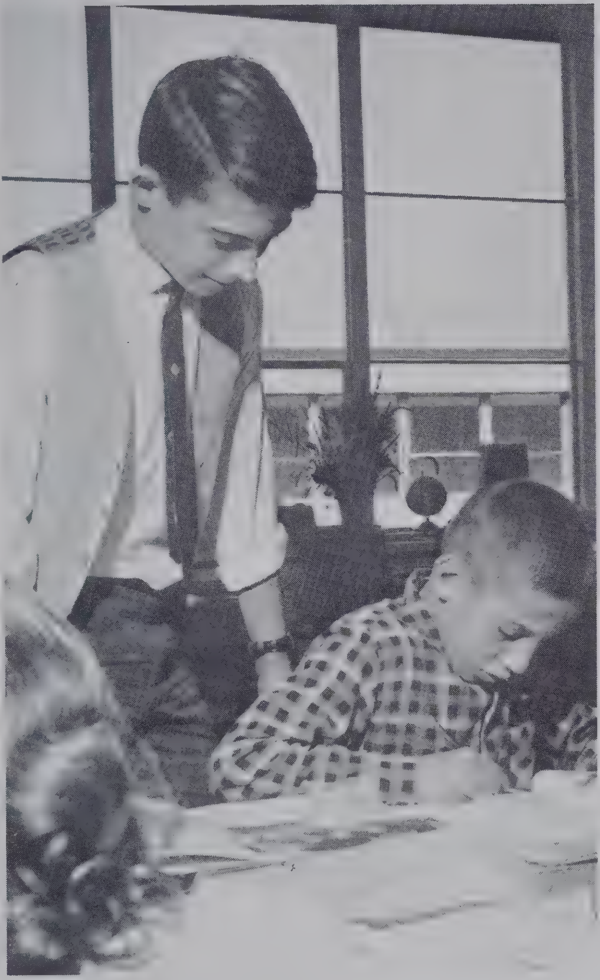
IN ORGANIZATIONS

providing the students with an outlet from studies, and daily routines. Organizations are a big part of the active student, for he participates and receives a totally different education from them.

In Y-clubs, language, science, vocational, student body, and musical clubs there lies a PROUD feeling of belonging and assisting themselves and others.



FTA cadet teacher Phil Sweeney helps third grader Timmy Thrush with his arithmetic.

Trying to decide which faculty baby picture is the cutest are Susan Gerber and Annette Barnhart, Blue Triangle members.

Student Council president, Mike Reese, shows school spirit poster to advisor, Mr. Richard Smith.

Magazine Drive, Council Capers, and

Student Government provides each student an opportunity to bring up suggestions to his representative to the council. These are met with discussion and results. Sponsor Mr. Richard Smith and President Mike Reese accomplish the hard tasks of reaching this goal.

The annual Magazine Drive and Council Capers provided funds which the Student Council put to good use. One of the different ideas accomplished was the making of a dress code. This code of dress sparked up the grooming of all around the school.

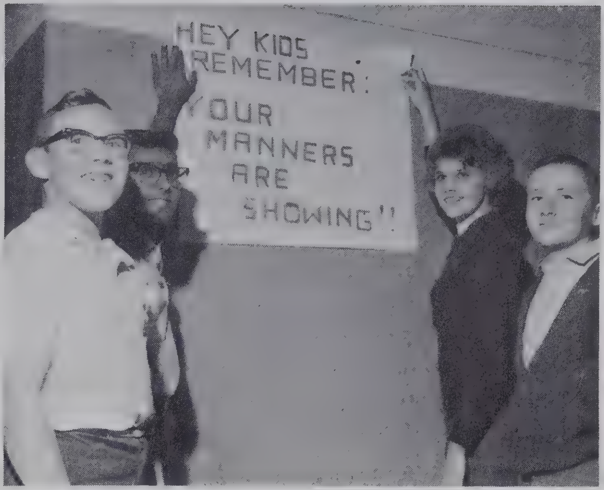
Looking at the handbook of school rules are junior representatives, Carol Rugman, Judy Knott, Dan Baker, and Mike Thomas.

Sophomore representatives, Randy Davis, Cindy Strobel, Tim Kolbe, and Sandra Gnagy, talk over the honor roll system.



Putting up a poster are freshman representatives, Steve Lewis, Bob Carpenter, Karen Myers, and Randy Tustison.

Dress Code, Goals of Student Council

Leading the eighth grade class are representatives Tina Wysong, Kevin Blair, Scott Bishop, and Rosemary Bherns who was not present.

Seventh grade council members are Joe Cromley, Kristine Brinkerhoff, Drucilla DeMint, and Lynn Grogg who was not present.

Journalists Use Pictures,

Editor-in-chief, Marcia Tharpe and advisor Mr. Richardson diligently study a reporter's story.

"The Maroon and Blue Streamliner," school newspaper, is biweekly published by the Maroon and Blue staff members under direction of editor, Marcia Tharpe, and advisor, Mr. Kenneth Richardson. Each staff member puts his time and effort to make this publication an event the students look for every other Friday.

Such events as sports, news, editorials, and action are covered by the Streamliner. Special editions as the Auburn-Garrett game and Christmas newspapers make the publication a versatile informer.

Tom Stebing, artist, Kathy Slater, exchange editor, Sam Miller, sports editor, Ann Wysong and Betty Muzzilo, assistant editor prepare their stories for the paper.

Mr. Cecil Miller typesets an edition of the paper while Marcia Tharpe looks on.

Advertising manager, June Harding, sells an ad to a local merchant.

Words to Tell School Story

Editor Jerilyn Rupp and advisor Mr. Richardson select pictures for the yearbook.

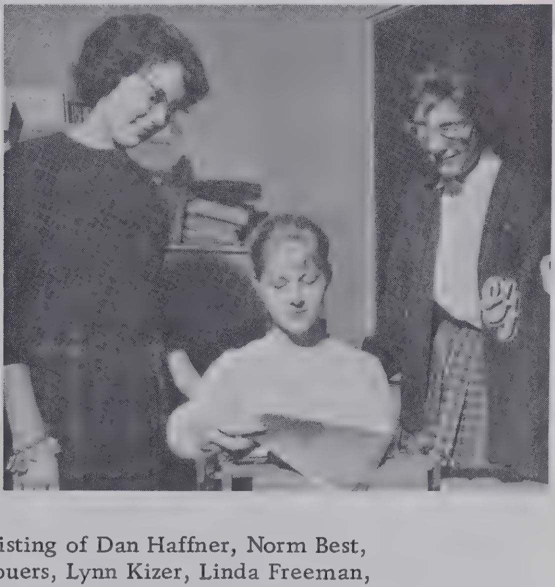
Rounding up the year's activities is the AEOLIAN, the school yearbook. The '63 yearbook, edited by Jeri Rupp and advised by Mr. Kenneth Richardson, combines photography, copy-writing, layout work, and deadlines, into a 96 page student-prepared book.

Senior projects and subscriptions supplied funds for the publication which came out in the spring.

Judi Johoski, underclassman editor, Annetta Davis, organization editor, Sandy Sithen, academic editor, Jenny Kelham, senior editor, and Joe Mahnesmith, sports editor, write captions for the pictures.

Sharon James and Roger Stroman, special section editors, Scott Lewis, assistant editor, and Ruby Cook, business manager, compare Aeolians to make improvements.

Typists Keitha Griffin, Arlene Carper, and Helen Hall proofread a final copy.



The Business staff consisting of Dan Haffner, Norm Best, Jeanne Menges, Bob Souers, Lynn Kizer, Linda Freeman, Kennetha Brown, and Carolyn Refner inspect the individual pictures.

Y-Teen officers: Linda Fleet, treasurer; Ruby Cook, welfare chairman; Ann Wysong, president; Jackie Weller, secretary; June Harding, program chairman; Jeri Rupp, vice-president, and Arlene Carper, song leader. Not present--Echo Lewis, devotional chairman, and Kennetha Brown, service chairman.

Highlighting the holidays was the Hi-Y--Y-Teen Semiformal on January 5. The "Mistletoe and Holly" dance was planned and worked on by many of the members of these two clubs. As a result, the evening proved to be enchanting for all.

Y-Teens and Hi-Y

Y-Teens, Susie Refner, Judy Knott, and Jenny Kelham, make nut cups for a charity project.

Margaret Crowe, Carol LaRue, and Sandy Sithen learn to knit in Y-Teens.

Annetta Davis, Keith Bunn, and Tina Wysong, serve bake and punch at the semi-formal.

Hi-Y officers are Dan Haffner, secretary; Phil Sweeney, treasurer; Tom Keefer, president; Keith Bunn, vice-president; and Joe Mahnesmith, chaplain.

President Tom Keefer finishes the last touch on a tree for the decorations at the semi-formal.

Besides having fun, Y-Teens and Hi-Y also serve others with their service projects. Learning to be better citizens, they often have community leaders to speak on their professions.

Produce Community Leaders

Entertainment by the Dick Brown orchestra proved to be enchanting for all at the semi-formal.

Semi-Formal, Service Projects,

Decorating for the semi-formal are Annette Barnhart and Susie Gerber.

One of the most original ideas put on by any of the clubs was the Blue Triangle's baby picture contest. It was a contest for the best looking baby picture of a GHS teacher. The winners were Mrs. Connie Wills and Mr. Jack Bateman.

They also teamed up with the Jr. Hi-Y to have their annual semi-formal. "Moonlight Magic" was highlighted by a king and queen contest. Those reigning were Jo Ellen Moses and Tim Kolbe.

Blue Triangle officers: Dawn Fleet, president; Judy Gaff, treasurer; Rebecca Haynes, vice-president; and Harriet Smith, secretary.

Initiating the new freshman members, Joyce Pfierman and Nancy Capin is sophomore Glenda Wentland.

Special Programs Make Leaders

Jr. Hi-Y officers: Tim Kolbe, treasurer; Tom Engle, vice-president; Vic Hunter, chaplain; Phil Brechbill, president; John Moats, secretary planned an active year.

Decorating for the semi-formal is Derek Heinzerling.

"To create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character" remains the theme of Jr. Hi-Y as it has in the past.

Jr. Hi-Y, little brother to Hi-Y, took part in the annual Blue Triangle, Jr. Hi-Y Semi-formal held in the high school auditorium January 12. The theme was "Moonlight Magic."

Cliff Gunion, Randy Bergdall, and Dick Pickard talk over the semi-formal.

Tom Barry enjoys food given to him by a fellow Latin Club member, Sandy Gnagy, after initiation.

Latin and Science Clubs Boast

One of the biggest events of the year was the Latin initiation of new members on November 6. A solemn ceremony followed by a spring banquet officially brought the new members into the world of the Roman Empire.

The Latin Club had many activities besides these including bi-monthly meetings, record hops, speakers, and making Roman costumes.

Joe Binz is being begged by Mary Wiant, Cindy Strobel, Tom Barry, and Nicka Fraze not to cut their heads off.

Cindy Strobel and Dawn Fleet listen to an oration given by Max Freeman.

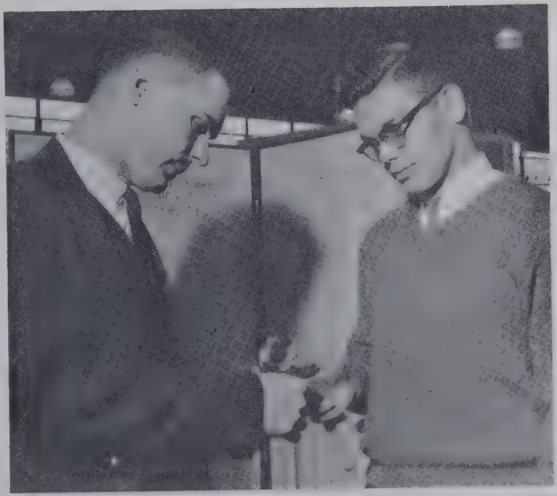
Science Club Officers are Danny Haffner--President, Becky Haynes--Librarian, Judi Johoski--Secretary, Jack Bateman --Sponsor. Not present--Harriet Smith--Treasurer, Lynn Kizer--Librarian, and Joe Rowe, Vice-President.

"Life on Mars" is demonstrated by Hud Freeze as he displays his science fair project to Dan Haffner and Mr. Bateman.

A Year of Fine Activities

The Science Club was a busy bee this year. Traveling to Chicago to the Science and Industry Building, buying new scientific supplies, working on science fair projects, and having bi-monthly meetings with speakers were just a few of their activities.

Science Club members often obtained needed material at the meetings and did anything from an experiment to learning about science in the modern world.



Senior science major Steve Fike and Mr. William Linder discuss a science project that took Steve to the World's Fair.

Still working this year, Steve Fike, gives his project lecture to other science club members.

President of FTA, Scott Lewis, shows a program possibility to program chairman, Marcia Tharpe and treasurer, Ann Wysong.

Sponsor Mr. Richard Smith and Secretary Kathy Slater talk over FTA rules.

FTA Members Have Teaching Goal

Getting acquainted with the teaching profession is the opportunity provided by the Future Teachers of America Club under the direction of Mr. Richard Smith.

Students usually enter Cadet Teaching during the second semester. They conduct a class in the grade school and learn the fundamentals of teaching.

Students Assist Teachers

A student librarian is one of the busiest persons in room 11 when study hall convenes. Running errands for students and teachers is their job as they find books and materials on every call.

Learning to operate cameras, projectors, tape recorders, and other objects is the job of the operators club. The members serve the classes and teachers with their knowledge of these devices.

Student Librarians are Marianne Sattison, Joyce Sigler, Linda Gaskill, and Carol DePew.

Ed Tuttle and Butch Pickard prepare to show a film to a class.

Darryl Whittington, Mike Shaffer, and Jim Sechler look over a sample box of candy for an FFA money-making project.

FFA advisor, Mr. Paul Bateman, talks to Phil Brechbill and Bill Thrush about entering the essay contest.

County Fair Projects, Record Hops Occupy F.F.A.

Livestock judging, candy sales, and county fair projects were a few of the jobs of the Future Farmers at GHS. All of these educated the members in the ways of a rural life.

Participation in local and state activities was an achievement of many of the members.

Officers: Ed Kelham, secretary; Carl Hixson, president; Sam Fulk, vice-president; Bill Thrush, reporter; Darryl Whittington, treasurer; Mike Shaffer, student advisor; Joe Shirk, sentinel.

The football team completed another vigorous season and established a record of three wins, three losses, and two ties. The most noticeable feature of the 1962 squad was its impressive spirit. Although they lacked somewhat in size, they exhibited their eagerness in all the games.

An impressive victory was over the Elmhurst Trojans with a 45-0 score. The season ended with a 19-19 tie with rival Auburn. This knocked the Red Devils out of NEIC first place and gained the Railroaders a tie for fourth spot in the conference race.

Senior Tom Funk demonstrates his abilities under the net during the Fremont game.

The Railroaders, led by ace Tom Funk, displayed another high spirited year of basketball to the Garrett fans with impressive wins over such highly rated teams as Bluffton (77-71), Huntertown (51-48), and Angola (67-56).

The Railroaders played action-packed basketball all through the season falling short by only one point to such teams as Kendallville, Central Catholic, and Columbia City.

Reserve Basketball Squad: FIRST ROW--Tony Foar, Steve Smith, David Steward; SECOND ROW--David Miller, Jim Heitz, Coach Ward Smith, Rick Lewis, John Moats.

The reserves followed in the footsteps of the varsity. Although lacking experience, the team made up for it in size with sophomore Jim Heitz standing 6 ft., 8 in.

This year's reserve team was one of the youngest that Coach Smith has ever placed on the hardwood. It consisted of four freshmen and one sophomore.

Coach Schafer's freshman team had an up-and-down season topped by a tournament championship at Auburn.

Victories over Auburn, Angola, and Kendallville kept the spirit high and provided valuable experience.

Squads Meet Many Opponents

Cathy Barcus, Cindy Lewis, Nancy Capin are freshman cheerleaders.

Cheering the fans and team on to victory are varsity cheerleaders Mick Wade, JoEllen Moses, and Wava Maggert.

Mary Wiant, Carolyn Parsons, and Dawn Fleet, reserve cheerleaders, add spark to the Handcars.

Conference Track Crown

"Teeing-off" is a familiar term used by the golf team each spring as they meet their opponents.

Many matches are held with such teams as Auburn, K'ville, Angola, and other surrounding schools.

Medalist Randy Oliver talks with Coach Paul Bateman as they prepare to leave for another golf match.

Dan Brinkerhoff prepares to tee-off before team members Kenny Yingling, John Moats, and Don Tarlton.

Highlights Spring Sports

Claiming the conference title, and having Jerry Thomas in the State Finals, Garrett made many advances with the coaching of Mr. Dick Capin. In hurdles, relays, shotput, polevaulting, and high jump were many reasons for being proud of the team members.

Jerry Thomas, ace hurdler, displays form that earned him a birth in the state track meet.

Clearing the bar Mike Jensen, polevaulter, scores points toward another Garrett victory.

"1-2-3--action." With this call, members of the Pep Squad present various formations like the block "C" at the games.

Pep Squad Backs Team.

"Not by team alone" is a familiar term of the Pep Squad. They assure others and themselves that to win you've got to have a spirited crowd. Pep Squad members give all they have at many of the games to secure a night'd victory.

Practice sessions for special events at tourney time with the cheerleaders proved to be quite successful as the yells and formations brightened the whole gymnasium.

Pep Squad Officers: Judi Johoski, President; Sandy Gnagy, Treasurer; Jacqueline Weller, Secretary; Susie Refner, Vice-President.

Sponsor LeNore Lewis and President Judi Johoski make seating charts at a pep practice session.

President Helen Hall sets up the net as Mick Wade, secretary; Dawn Fleet, vice-president; and Susie Gerber, treasurer steady the poles.

It's going over! Another victory for another team.

G.A.A. Gains Over Auburn

Victory over Auburn's team was the highlight of GAA this season. A volleyball tourney gave way to Garrett's feminine members as they scored a 3-2 victory.

Basketball, as well as volleyball was played. Teams and captains were chosen and they competed for the awards given out at the banquet. This GAA Banquet is the windup of the season and is a salute to every player.

Ooops! Wava Maggert tries her best to return that opponent's serve.

Pardon Our Pride

IN CLASSES

that encourage growth of the mind. In English, foreign language, math, science, and all the others, we are proud to receive the influence and guidance our instructors provide each day. PROUD that each person can reach a goal through study and work of his choice. PROUD that some of these people bring recognition to our school by way of honorary achievements.

Stab, slice, cut, and probe describes the dissection by biology student, Terry VanDerbosch.

Shop workers Bill Kobiela and Bob Smith weld two pieces of metal.

Superintendent of schools Charles Puff.

A new face and a new name appeared in the administration this year with the coming of superintendent, Mr. Charles Puff, from Orleans, Indiana. Adjustments were quickly made and the school board and Mr. Puff soon got busy on such items as the new addition, and problems of the high school and grade school.

Retaining their positions, the administration of the high school were kept busy with the new grade card system, senior counseling, and working on the school projects.

School Administration

President of the school board, Raymond Burtch presides at a meeting with members Oscar Noel, Maurice Chisholm, Arthur Hall, and George Wade.

Marjorie Nell, treasurer.

Dorothy McDanel, secretary.

High School Principal, Ben Simpson.

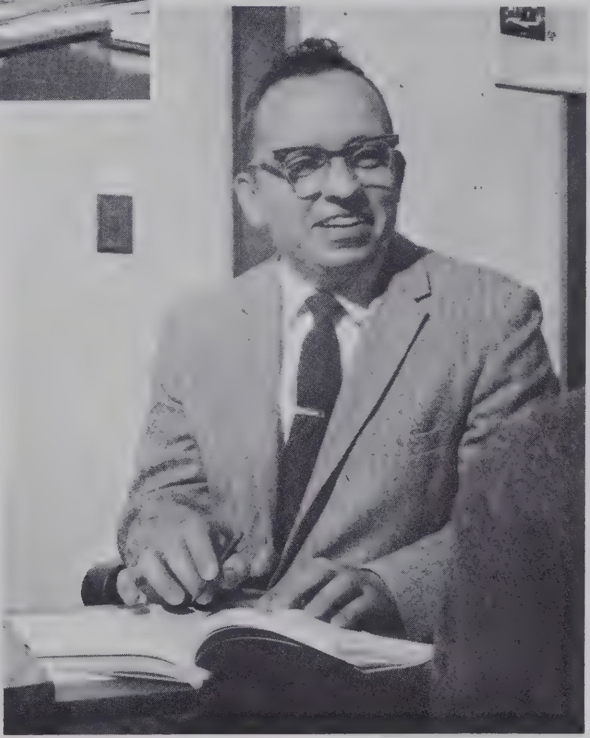
Absence blanks, tickets, college catalogs, lost articles, and mornings were distributed through the office.

Students enter the office each with a different problem, and almost always leave with a solution.

Daily happenings are broadcast each morning to inform the students.

Smooth running of the school is due to the work of these co-ordinators in the office.

Plans Addition



Mr. Lynn Bollinger, Guidance Counselor and Assistant Principal.

Office clerk and secretary, Mrs. Elaine Kizer.

Seeking reference material for term papers are Senior Composition students Sherry Parsons and Tom Keefer.

Journalism students Bob Culler and Sherry Bertsch take notes on a lecture about the proposed addition to the high school given by Superintendent Charles Puff.

English Builds Communication

Ruth Johnson checks out one of the many novels from the library for a literature book report.

An example of telephone communication is demonstrated by freshman English students Randy Rupp, Larry Dillon, and Cindy Lewis.

English, the American language, is a requirement for all students. Whether composition, speech, literature, English grammar, or journalism each field has many different phases.

Some of the English faculty members took linguistic courses after hours and were involved in creating a new curriculum for the department using the new methods presented in the classes.

MISS MARY SCHRIDER--Hist. 8, Eng. 10, 8th grade advisor, Blue Triangle Sponsor. MR. KENNETH RICHARDSON--Eng. 11, Journalism 11 & 12, 12th grade advisor.

Skills

Librarian Hildreth Sweeney displays one of the magazines at the library table.

Senior speech student Sam Miller pantomimes a checker game.

French students Mary Lepley, Gerald Porter, and Carol LaRue use their vocabulary art in French newspapers.

MRS. ECHO LEWIS--Eng. 8, French, 10th grade advisor. MRS. ELIZABETH LOVE--Latin I & II, 10th grade advisor, Latin Club Sponsor. MR. DAVID ARLINGTON--Eng. 10, Literature 12, Spanish I & II, 11th grade advisor.

Drill and Practice

French, one of the romance languages, is in its first year at Garrett.

Latin and Spanish are also offered with Spanish claiming a new teacher.

Languages play a big part in the modern world and each student taking one is educating himself in the ways of other people.

Barry McNamara tests the sauce for tortillas made by Vic Hunter for their Spanish projects.

Craig Gilliland drills other first year Latin students on vocabulary.

Figuring totals on the adding machine is the job of second year bookkeeping students Elaine Denes and Jim White.

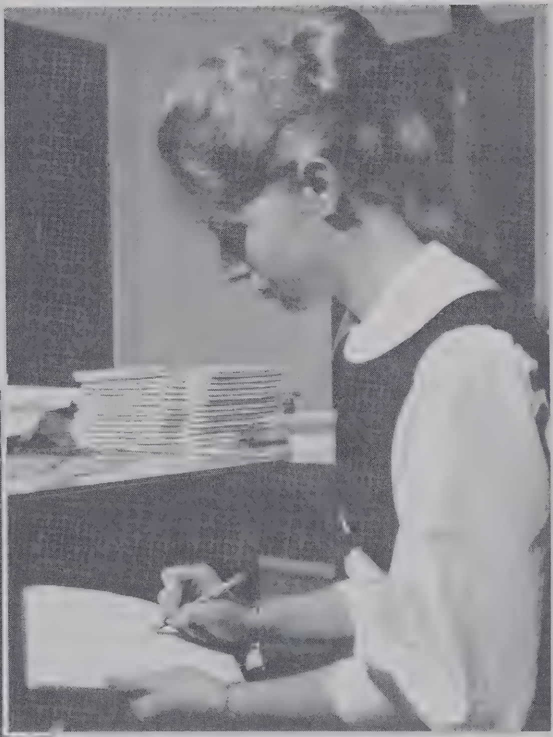
MR. ROBERT BRATTON--Bookkeeping I & II, Sales, 8th grade advisor, Jr. Hi-Y Sponsor. MRS. DORIS MENGES--Eng. 9, Typing I, 9th grade advisor, ¢-Teen Sponsor. MISS SARAH ELDRIDGE--General Business, Shorthand I & II, Typing II, 11th grade advisor, Blue Triangle Sponsor.

Made Life Busy

Calculating columns of numbers is the systemic job of second year bookkeeping, a new addition to the curriculum.

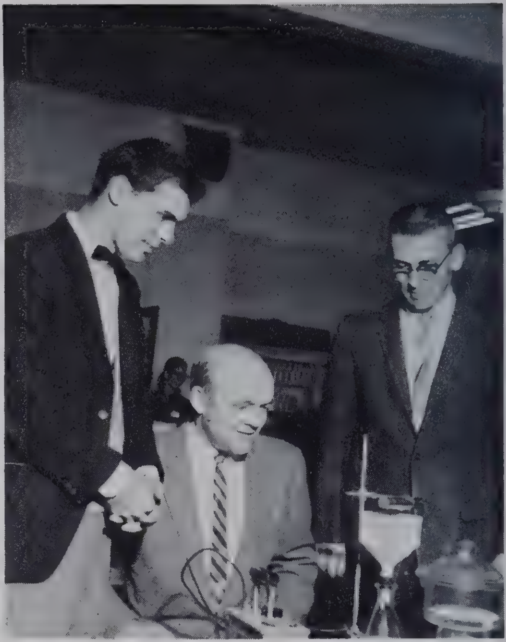
Typing, shorthand, and other business subjects prepare the students with future job skills. The business world is becoming vaster each day and more education for the person who plans to enter it is supplied by our curriculum.

Junior Tom Vanderbosch displays one of the many talents acquired in first year typing.



Taking dictation is put to use by business major Arlene Carper.

First year chem students, Bill Corry and Dave Quinn try out the various chemicals in the lab.



MR. WILLIAM LINDER--Physical Science, Trigonometry, Advanced Algebra, Physics, 7th grade advisor, Science Club Sponsor. MR. CLEO MILLER--Biology, 7 & 8th Science, 8th grade advisor. MR. JACK BATEMAN--Advanced Chem., Biology, Chem., 10th grade advisor, Science Club Sponsor.

GHS is very proud of its science department for the students have made outstanding progress in its field. Two boys went to the Worlds Fair last spring with their projects. There were also many winners in the science fair divisions.

Learning in biology, chemistry, and physics are those students destined for an expansive future.

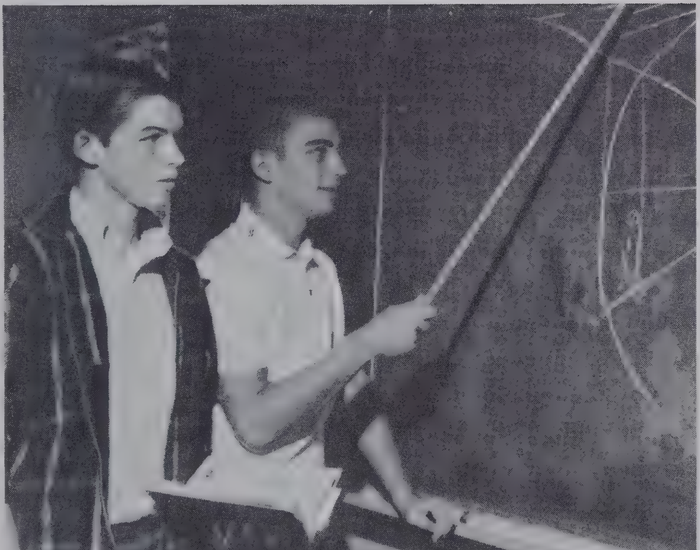
Mathematics is needed every day of our lives. Each student is required to take some form of math before he graduates. Learning about angles, measurements, weights, and many others devices is met in these classes.

As a result GHS has had many winners in the comprehensive math division contests.

Math Tops in Academic Field



Under the guidance of Senior Randy Oliver, Chuck Rhetts demonstrates a trigonometry problem.

Cathy Campbell and Claudia Miller look on, as freshman Steve Mulligan solves an algebra problem.

MR. ROBERT HARMON--7th Geography, 8th History, 11th advisor. MR. CAMERON PARKS--U.S. History, World History, 10th advisor. MR. VIRGIL FINCHUM --World History, Civics & Economics, 12th advisor.

To present his semester history project, George Hathaway, made an American flag cake.

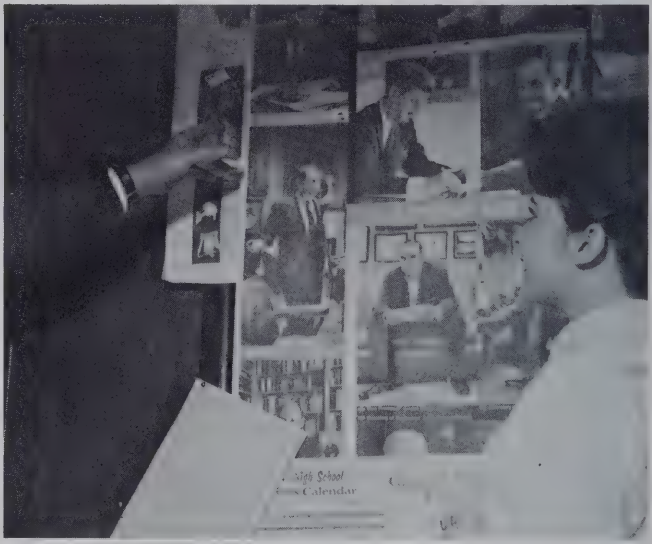
Social Studies and Arts Delve

Social Studies at GHS give a past and future look to our world. Studying the ways and means of our present and past systems enables the student to prepare for the coming times.

Among the outstanding developments which the classes took pride in were the junior history projects, book reports, and a senior citizen for a state test.

Leading a world history discussion are Adele Smith, Derek Heinzerling, Glenda Wentland, and Larry Wiley.

Civics student, Pam Wasson, admires the chart of President Kennedy and his cabinet.



MRS. CONNIE WILLS--Art, Speech Junior Advisor, Y-Teen Sponsor. MR. DONALD WILSON--Chorus, 7 & 8th music.

Ronnie Sechler and David Likens discover many things can be constructed with tooth picks.

Into the Past

Art and Music at GHS give the student an opportunity to express his cultural interests. Many of the accomplishments in these were on display.

The high school art class studies the different cultural ages of art. They also went into modern designs and structures.

Larry Heller, senior art student, paints a Christmas design on a window in art class.

Stamina, Patience Needed for

Physical education and health habits develop strength of the mind as well as the body. Gym classes venture into basketball, football, volleyball, and various other sports. Health and safety prepare students for habits of daily living.

Driving a car presents many a problem to the student driver as he takes lesson after lesson. Safety on the road is important in this day of automation.

Marilee Hughes learns how the heart functions by examing a scale model in Health class.

Eighth grade girls gym class work on tumbling skills.

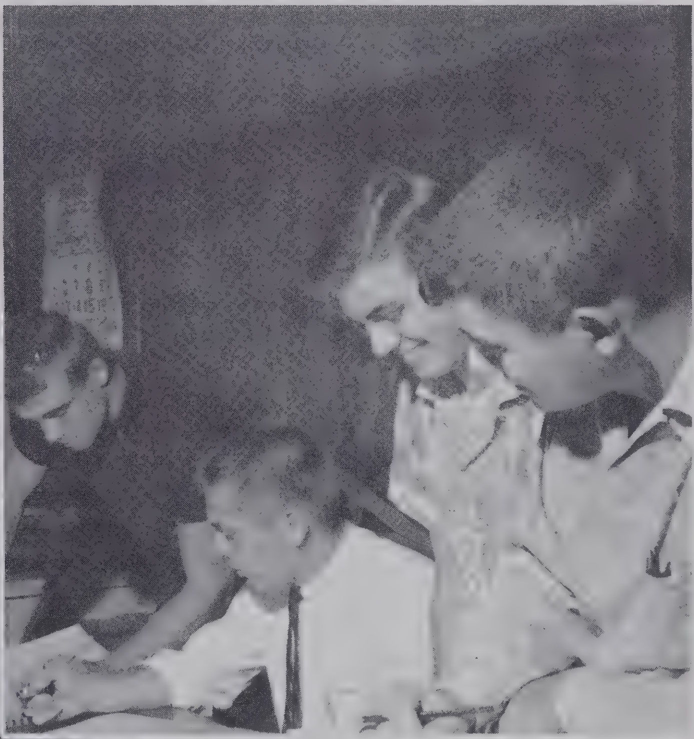
MR. WILLIAM SCHAFER--Gym, Health 11, Drawing 11 and 33, 7th grade advisor. MR. DONALD STEWARD--Shop, 9th grade advisor, Hi-Y Sponsor.

MRS. JENNY SMITH--Homemaking I, II. MR. PAUL BATEMAN --Biology, Agriculture, 11th grade advisor, Operator's Club Sponsor.

Practical Development

Sewing and cooking take a lead in the basic training of the future homemaker. Girls are trained in these fields and learn to apply them to their own lives.

Skill in industry is received by the worker in the Industrial Arts course as he works with wood, plastic, electricity, and metal.



Drawing students, Bob Snook, Steve Fuller, and John Houser get together with instructor Mr. Schafer to solve a difficult problem.

Judy Knott and Patsy Smith measure and hem a skirt in homemaking class.

Helen Hall, band president, and Mr. Raymond Cole, band director, discuss an upcoming presentation.

Girls singing in the Junior ensemble included Mick Wade, Judy Knott, Rosie McGrath, Karen Rowe, Pat Freeman, and Marilee Hughes. SECOND ROW: Dianne Miller, Linda Fleet, Jackie Weller, Sally Weimer, Johneen Ellis, and Peg Redmond. Accompanist, Margaret Crowe.

In addition to the chorus classes, several smaller singing groups were organized by director Mr. Don Wilson.

The job of presenting the Thanksgiving Assembly and the PTA Christmas Concert was taken in stride and handled well by the singers of the school.

This year a trio of three senior girls made its appearance. Carol Larue, Arlene Carper, and Carolyn Refner joined voices for it.

In the spring the singing groups entered the district contests to complete the year.

Chorus Presents Musical Variety.

Members of the Sophomore ensemble crowded in the Ober Building music room to practice after school. They are Patsy Eberhard, Harriett Smith, Theresa Beber, Judy Hyde, and Polly Van Zile. Connie Leeper, Adele Smith, Janice Casey, Connie Fetter, Jo Ellen Moses, Faith Hathaway, Carolyn Parsons, Mary Wiant, LaDonna Ringler, and Cindy Strobel harmonize. Their accompaniest was Rebecca Haynes.

Room 28 echoed as the Teenettes practiced for their many appearances. June Harding, Arlene Carper, Wava Maggert, and Ruby Cook are seen practicing here. Others include Carol LaRue, Jean Hollis, Sandy Sithen, Janos Ratrie, Carolyn Refner, and Janice Shafer.

Senior class officers, President Tom Funk; Vice-President, Bob Snook; Secretary, Sharon James; Treasurer, Ruby Cook attend to class business.

While world affairs suddenly came to a crisis during the Cuban situation, the Class of '63 started its last year at GHS.

The Class play, "Remarkable Incident at Carsons Corners," proved to be one of the major events of the fall. School organizations and sponsors offered guidance and counseling to aid us as we planned our future.

Homeroom programs stimulated thinking and prompted serious discussions.

Representing our years at G.H.S. are the class sweater, class ring, and diploma.

IN UNDERCLASSMEN

Performing a chemical experiment is junior Dave Fry.

who wait anxiously for class rings, sweaters, and parties. Juniors, wondering what the following year will bring; sophomores, glad to be moving up the ladder with new experiences; and freshmen, relieved to leave the younger set of high school grades.

We are PROUD of the underclassmen who walk the halls of GHS, each one making the school's life brighter and more enjoyable.

Larry Warstler, Roger Noel, Joyce Pfierman and Clarence Thompson, pass the time at noon as they pick out records for entertainment.

Junior Class officers, Linda Fleet, Johneen Ellis, Al Rapp, and Larry Barnhart, observe the site for the new high school addition.

Bubbly excitement gleams in the faces of these juniors as they choose their class rings.

Pretending to be hard at work with the globe for history class, these juniors are really showing off their class rings.

Sophomore Class officers Janice Casey, John Moats, Connie Leeper, and Jo Ellen Moses observe guidance materials available to every high school student.

The Sophomores were kept warm through rain, sleet, and snow in their sporty class sweaters and jackets.

Pardon Our Pride

In the Students

for it is these people who make our school what it is. Without chattering and friendly faces, GHS swould be empty and without a purpose.

Through activities, classes, sports, and organizations, students spark life into every minute.

PRIDE is GHS's label, wear it with a catching smile and a warm heart!
